INCHEON CONTAINER TERMINAL

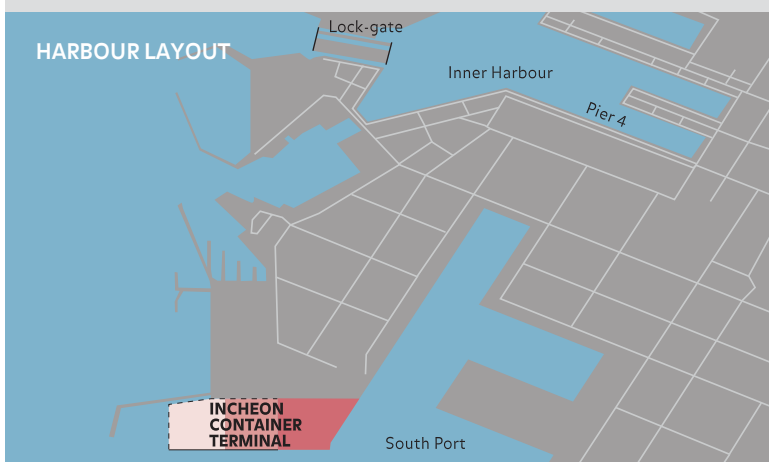

Incheon is the gateway port to the Seoul Metropolitan area, which has numerous industrial complexes, about 1,000 manufacturers and a population of 25 million people, which together, accounts for about 35% of South Korea's import and export market.

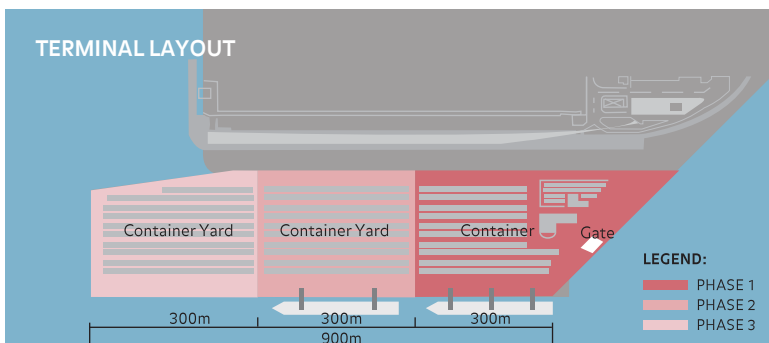

Incheon Port's location in Northeast Asia predisposes it as an ideal port of call for the two economic powerhouses, China and Japan.

As the biggest container terminal in the South Port of Incheon and located closer to numerous logistics centres and warehouses, Incheon Container Terminal offers customer oriented services with high terminal productivity.

The terminal is currently operating with two 300-metre berths and five quay cranes. ■
